Re: Toe Stoppers

Dear Team,

Recently I saw David Hayes being interviewed on SKY racing and he mentioned one of his riders had died at his stables after being dragged and he had now made Toe Stoppers compulsory.

I have been using Toe Stoppers for about 12 months but recently trialed the new model and all the riders prefer them because they are a better design, more soft and comfortable and I totally agree with David that Toe Stoppers should be made compulsory.

I have experienced being dragged and it was a horrifying experience a horse shied and I came of the side and my foot became lodged in the stirrup iron and I was swung around until my boot came off.

There is no doubt your product prevents riders from being dragged and I have made them compulsory on all my saddles, thank you for a wonderful product.

Sincerely,

Melody Keegan
